8 TIPS TO IMPROVE YOUR ENGLISH WRITING SKILLS

by English Tonight 160 Comments

LogLogLost FSeFo

Strong writing skills in English come from practice and determination. No one is born an excellent writer. Learning to be an excellent writer in English takes a lot of time and practice. Anyone can be a good writer if they are determined enough.

Everyone has a different reason why they need to improve their writing. Maybe you need to improve your writing for work or for your English class

Below are 8 Tips to Improve Your English Writing Skills:

1. Keep All of your Writing in One Place

Buy a notebook or journal or start an electronic journal. By keeping your writing all in the same place, you will be able to see how much you are improving and keep it organized.

2. Practice Writing in English Daily

The importance of writing daily is that you start to create a new habit. Writing every day in English will soon become natural and something you look forward to. You will not see a significant improvement if you are not dedicated to becoming a better writer in English. You cannot create awesome stories and papers if you never try.

3. Pick a Topic and WRITE!

Don't get stuck on figuring out what to write about. You can write about anything. You can write about what you do, things you hear or see, news, or make up a story. If you do get stuck, use some of English Tonight's writing prompts to help you get started.

4. Write More than One Draft

Draft means a preliminary version of piece of writing. Sometimes, your best writing becomes better after you take a break and work on a second or third draft. When you revise (or rewrite) your work you are often able to get your message across more clearly. You make think of things that you did not think to write in the first draft and you can add it in a later draft.

5. Use Online Resources to Correct your Grammar

Yes, grammar is a pain. You don't need to know everything about English grammar. Use online resources, such as Grammarly, GrammarCheck or GrammarBook.com to help you answer a grammar question when it comes up. You could also switch the spell and grammar check on MS Word, your iPad or Google Doc to check your spelling and grammar in English.

6. Think Outside the Box (or Lines)

Don't write about the same thing every day or you will get bored. Try writing the same story from different perspectives or different tenses. If you are writing a story about a baby that won't stop crying; first, it could be the mother telling the story; then from the perspective of the baby. Or you could write it in present moment.... 'My baby hasn't stopped crying in five days...' and then write in the perspective of a pregnant woman that is thinking about having a baby that won't stop crying. Don't write about topics in the obvious way. Be creative!

7. Have a Friend Edit Your Writing

Have a friend that knows English correct or edit your work. Having another person read your work helps generate more ideas to better your writing. You could have them edit everything or just a part that you are stuck on. Often having another set of eyes look at your writing helps find mistakes that you have overlooked.

8. Find the Best Place for You to Write

You should try writing in different places or at different times of the day. Maybe you have writer's block at night; try getting up 15 minutes earlier and writing in the morning. Maybe you have trouble writing where there is a lot of noise; try writing in a quiet and comfortable place. Experiment in finding the right (or write?) environment for you to write.

Writing is a process; the more you work on your writing the better it (and you) will get.

very nicely written article ,and i truly inspired by your article to learn and write more in my case ,generally i writes but didnt get it checked by anyone ,want to improve more and more as i have determined myself.

while i dont have any such eminent great friend who may guide and acknowledge my work with his knowledge about minor mistakes.

but,i wont give hope ,would be best with my skill ,be with me with your guidance as most of the online blog i found copy and paste job ,but really it was very good to read these tips here,and i promise i would make them more fruitful by making habit of my life.

Hi Che! Thanks for reading. Practice is what is important. Also, as a freelancer telling your clients that you are open to feedback and doing revisions is important. We all make mistakes but the important thing is that we are trying to get (or be) better at the things we do. No one is perfect! 😊

These eight tips are really helpful for those who want to improve their english. I am also using this formula. I have been writing short articles and essays of different topics since a last month. I really enjoy when i start to write. Actual things i mention in essay imorove my english wrting skills. I am agree with all of above mentioned tips for writing skills. It is practically true that one should write his thoughts, desire and openion. As my experience, I read things with concentration and after that I can easilly write that thing. Because of good input the writing will be also good output. I suggests all the persons who want to improve their writting skills should follow above given rule.
thanks all of you.

Thanks for your nice tips I think, if i will follow your suggested tips then deferentially it will work... I want to become a very good/impressive writer so this time I would like to take a step and today on-wards I will follow your suggestions and would like to give at-least 6 month with dedication and it would be continues effort lets se what will happen after six months

I will keep post/share in this group my experience and improvement in written English 😊
